

To Whom It May Concern:

The Greater Atlanta Chapter of NACE had the pleasure of Kenny Zail as their speaker for the October Monthly Meeting. Our theme was "Drumming Up Morale". He designed an ice breaker for the networking session that really got everyone to mingle. As people arrived, they were given a puzzle piece. During the course of the hour, they had to find the other five people in their group that made a complete puzzle which spelled a color. At dinner time, the newly formed groups sat at the linen covered tables matching their answer. This was the first time that our group truly mingled. Usually everyone comes and talks to the people that they already know, but that night with Kenny's help, new friends were made!

Kenny was able to continue the theme through dinner. He had the guests playing songs on drums, working together to solve word games and having fun. They probably didn't even realize he was teaching them something at the same time! He asks you what your group needs and designs a program around it. Kenny is very organized and detailed. He leaves nothing up to chance!

I highly recommend Kenny Zail for any team building exercise you are considering.
